The necessity for such a plan has been long apparent from the many failures made in teaching these branches, as witnessed in a large majority of our schools. Take, for instance, the study of History. How many teachers have labored hard and long trying to get through the book with a class, only to find on examination that very few, if any, of the pupils could relate, either orally or in writing, in language not borrowed from the text book (and few even in that) the history of any important period of campaign! Why is this, if not because too much time has been spent n memorizing unimportant matter? and that, too, so disconnected that the first part of the story was forgotten before the last was learned.
