Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Inaugural Address: Delivered to the University of St. Andrews, Feb; 1st 1867 I shall confine myself, however, to education in the narrower sense; the education in the narrower sense; the culture which each generation purposely gives to those who are to be its successors, in order to qualify them for at least keeping up, and if possible for raising, the level of improvement which has been attained. Nearly all here present are daily occupied either in receiving or in giving this sort of education: and the part of it which most concerns you at present is that in which you are yourselves engaged - the stage of education which is the appointed business of a national University. The proper function of an University in national education is tolerably well understood. At least there is a tolerably general agreement about what an University is not. It is not a place of professional education. Universities are not intended to teach the knowledge required to fit men for some special mode of gaining their livelihood. Their object is...
