Kikiruka Publishing. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 388 pages. Dimensions: 8.5in. x 5.5in. x 0.9in.Hilarious and flippant sci-fi, tempered by the solemn profundity of the human condition. It features extraterrestrials, bigfoots, and a handful of level-headed humans struggling to make sense of unprecedented circumstances on their home planet. An advanced species of aliens, Xenkonians, pretend to be God. Their purpose To convince humanity to blissfully accept cranial tubing in order to harvest their melatonin, which just happens to have the same chemical properties as a powerful recreational narcotic, but with even better effect. It also enhances the telepathic ability of the few Xenkonians predisposed to telepathy, including an egomaniac military leader hell-bent on conquering the galaxy. God is created by exploiting an ancient channeling species, the Hooqqai, who have a history of benevolently imitating God to influence and guide less-evolved species throughout the galaxy. The Xenkonians send an avatar in human form to earth, channeled by an elder and somewhat reluctant Hooqqai, whose initial mission is to unite humanitys religions, then create a new religious order controlled by the avatar. But the mission gets sidetracked when the mind of an old Xenkonian mute monk, with a decidedly Zen disposition and a fondness for gambling, finds its way into the avatars body. The avatar befriends a young atheistic hermit in the mountains of Oregon and the fun begins. Earth will never be the same. This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg,OR, La Vergne,TN. Paperback.
