More incred-ulous was the finding that none of the public schools in the urban areas of Los Angeles, Chicago, Miami, Detroit, Cleveland, San Diego, Baltimore and even Washington, D. C. were determined to be persistently dangerous. These findings raise some major concerns. The finding in Los Angeles was particularly troubling with re-gard to Banning Senior High School near Los Angeles, because in the 2001-2002 school year it was the scene of 28 batteries, two as-saults with a deadly weapon and three sex offenses; and this year an 18-year-old student died of a head injury hours after a fistfight in the school parking lot, and a fellow student was charged with murder. But safety is not just a concern in our nations most metropolitan areas. In fact, last week a student brought a gun to Wheat Ridge High School in Colorado. All of us want to prevent another tragic situation like Columbine. It is essential that we accurately evalu-ate our schools before declaring they are not persistently dan-gerous. Today we have a...
