Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Iris The scene represents two drawing-rooms of equal size upon the ground door of a house in Kensington. In the wall separating the rooms are two arched entrances - the one on the right-hand side, the other on the left - and in the centre, between these entrances, is a fireplace. Over the fireplace is an opening, shaped and framed like a mirror; so that, with the view gained through the archways, the further room is almost entirely disclosed. In this further room, on the left, is a single door admitting to a small apartment; in the centre, at the back, is a conservatory seen through glazed doors; and on the right is a window affording a view of a garden. On the left-hand side of the room nearer the spectator are double-doors opening from the inner hall of the house; and, on the right, facing these doors, there is a spacious circular bow in which are three french-windows also looking on to the garden. The rooms are richly furnished and decorated. In the further room a grand piano - adorned with paintings in the style of Watteau and Lancret - and a music-stool stand by the window.
